Thank you for your interest in the Washington, DC Chapter of the Special Libraries Association. Information professionals in the metro area and beyond have looked to us for learning opportunities and mutual support for nearly 70 years.

We host an active email discussion forum, publish a monthly newsletter, and hold meetings, programs and social events throughout the year. Students receive our support through scholarships and special programs. We support our local community through consultation and service activities.

We are acting as good global citizens through a variety of initiatives, including support to the Lubuto Library Project (<http://www.lubuto.org>).

SLA will celebrate its 100th year in our nation's capital in 2009. DC/SLA has some exciting activities planned to honor our association's centennial. We hope you join us to enjoy the professional benefits and camaraderie ahead. I look forward to welcoming you.
